Disk Cleaner - Disc.Thacamama Thacamama is an archaeological site at Goa, which dates to the Iron Age. It is an ancient site of the Thakar Dynasty. History Thacamama is the oldest continually inhabited settlement in Goa and one of the first true "city-states" in the subcontinent. Historians consider the building of the city to have been started by the Bhillaas or Bhilalaas from the banks of the Nerbudda in the 8th century A.D. (650-750 AD). By the 10th century, Thacamama was the capital of the region. Iron Age Thacamama was the capital of the kingdom of the Korwa dynasty, comprising the areas around Goa, Porvorim and Bombay. The kingdom became a part of the Chalukya Empire. The rulers of the Korwa dynasty were, up to the 4th or 5th century AD (early Christian era), the Chalukya rulers. After the rule of the Chalukyas, the rulers were from the Thakar dynasties. "At this point in time, there was a great cultural revival as far as art and architecture in the general south of India." The Vijay-karnata, the predecessor of the Shiva-karnata in Goa, was first given by King Pulakeshin II of the southern Chalukya dynasty to the Kamarajas of Pattadakal (Pattadakal means capital city) in Karnataka. The capital, Thakor, and other cities such as Gomantak, which were later abandoned, were excavated during the 1950s by the Archaeological Survey of India. The excavations were largely abandoned due to poor planning and lack of financial support. The excavation of the great temples was later taken up by the Archaeological Survey of India's South Konkan project. The south Konkan area is rich in ancient towns of the Chalukya dynasties. The ruins of Thacor and the other ancient sites are still visible in the forests near the village of Thakor in South Goa. Site description The archaeological excavations and archaeological survey of the ancient cities are located inside the Ch f678ea9f9e
